Pilot Program Template

Directions

This pilot program is a template that can be tailored for your organization’s use (delete this paragraph before finalizing your pilot program). It was designed with best practices in mind, but some administrators or counties may not be comfortable enough or able to reduce barriers to this extent. In these cases, it may be advantageous to start very small in order to prove that the program is safe and effective, and later reduce barriers as success is seen and confidence in the program has grown. Options are listed at the end of this document.

Background

Field trips are quickly becoming known as a great way to find new foster caregivers, engage with the community, reduce kennel stress and get better information on a dog’s behavior. Field trips are helpful in marketing dogs for adoption, as potential adopters want to know what a dog looks and acts like outside of their kennel. The opportunity for creative photography, videos and stories is increased.

A 2018 study of the field trip program at Louisville Metro Animal Services (LMAS) found that dogs on field trips were happier, more relaxed, more playful and calmer than dogs in the shelter. Dogs on field trips showed less nervousness, anxiousness, insecurity, barking, shaking/trembling and repetitive behaviors such as jumping. With 350 field trips occurring during the study and 70+ dogs finding homes as a direct result of their field trips, 20% of field trips led directly to a dog’s adoption. LMAS’s field trip program specifically targets dogs that are suffering from kennel stress and are at risk for euthanasia. During the study period, LMAS cut the number of dogs euthanized for behavior in half.

Goals

- To engage with the community in a fun, new way
- To increase the number of people who can participate in all types of foster care
- To increase the number of long-term fosters
- To increase adoptions of medium and large dogs due to increased information on the dogs’ behavior outside the shelter and more marketing material
- To increase safety within the building by keeping dogs’ stress levels down
- To increase enrichment for our organization’s dogs

Pilot

- Pilot will last for 1 month
  - Program will be open to the public.
  - Program will be accessible any day of the week.
  - Foster coordinator will keep a running list of between three and ten dogs that can participate in the program (depending on the size of your facility and access to volunteers)
At the end of 1 month we will meet, look at program data, determine if program is viable and adjust program guidelines and logistics.

Logistics

Before program begins

- Create a template for kennel/condo signs that can be placed on dog kennels when they leave for a field trip to inform staff and volunteers of the dog’s current location
- Dedicated program volunteers
  - Create a job description for dedicated program volunteers (decide on duties such as gathering supplies, assisting with matching dogs and fosters, harnessing and leashing dogs, checking dogs in and out in the organization’s software, etc.)
    - See job description template on page 5 of this document
  - Train 3-4 dedicated program volunteers to assist with running the program
  - Decide on data to be gathered and create system for tracking it.
  - Create a list of good local places for fosters to take pets on field trips. Note which places might make especially good field trips for dogs who are fearful or reactive (for example, quiet parks might be best for reactive dogs)

Staffing

- Behavior staff (or caretaker, foster coordinator, or program volunteer) will meet available dogs and select 10-15 dogs that will be offered for participation weekly (unless all dogs are made available, or all dogs of a specific behavior dot color)
- Field trip program volunteer (or foster coordinator, behaviorist or adoptions staff) will assist field trip fosters in gathering supplies, choosing dogs, harnessing and leashing dogs, and deciding on a great location for their trip
- Field trip program volunteer (or adoptions staff or foster coordinator) will check dogs out of the organization’s software for field trips and back in when they return

Length of time

- Dogs can be picked up for field trip foster between the hours of ___ and ___ and dropped off ____.
- Field trips should last at least 1 hour (except in the case of emergency).

Training

- Field trip fosters will be trained on-the-spot by foster coordinator (or program volunteer) by discussing pertinent ground rules, what to do in an emergency and other important information
- We will collect the following information on potential field trip foster caregivers:
  - First and last name(s)
  - Home and mobile phone numbers
  - Address
  - Information on their experience with dogs, and what they’re looking for in a field trip companion

Safety
Dogs must leave the building and be walked wearing an EasyWalk or Freedom harness, martingale collar, sturdy leash and a carabiner linking the harness to the collar as a backup at all times (or use two leashes—one for the harness and one for the collar).

Only dogs on the adoption floor are allowed to go, except with a manager’s approval.

Dogs are not allowed off-leash in public places (okay at private homes provided dog is in secure area without other dogs around) or in dog parks. SHOULD THEY EVEN BE ALLOWED IN A DOG PARK ON-LEASH GIVEN LEASH REACTIVITY?

Before leaving the building, the foster caregiver(s) will have the organization’s emergency contact information programmed into their phone or written down and carried with them throughout the field trip.

Dogs must be supervised at all times.

Data to be collected

Data will be collected on the program and its results in order to determine the program’s efficacy and success. We will track the following data:

- The total number of field trips
- The number of dogs who are served by the program
- The total number of field trip fosters
- The number of incidents (bites and other emergencies) that happen on field trips, with written details
- The number of dogs that are adopted or fostered for a longer period that are directly related to a field trip (for example, field trip foster who decides to foster for the weekend, dog who meets adopter on a field trip or through social media done on the dog’s field trip, etc.)

Marketing the program

- We will create a marketing plan for the program to ensure its long-term success.
- We will create a press release to announce the start of the program and put out the word to local media and community members.
- We will create several graphics and a video to educate the community on the benefits of field trip programs and how they can get involved.
- We will market the program consistently by posting photos, stories and video from field trips at least 2-3 times per week.
- With our field trip fosters, we will set the expectation from the beginning that creating marketing material for the pet they take on a field trip is part of the job.
  - Suggest that field trip fosters take a partner with them to help take photos and video; if they don’t have someone to partner with, we can try to set them up with a photographer or volunteer.

Potential barriers

- The more successful the program is, the more work it could become. Assigning other staff and/or volunteers to assist with (or run) the program can mitigate this. See below for a sample job description.
Liability concerns
- With foster care, one of the biggest areas of risk is in neglecting to be completely transparent about pets' behavioral histories. You must ensure that fosters be given pets' full behavioral histories before taking them out of the shelter.
- Having a watertight foster agreement and having all of your fosters, from field trips to longer-term foster sign it, can protect your organization. We recommend having your city or county's attorney review it first.
- The liability that an organization has with foster care is similar to the liability they have with adoptions.

Options
- Program can be piloted with current volunteers and fosters only.
- Pilot the program on 1-2 specific days of the week, and/or at times your organization is closed.
- If needed, in-person orientations can be scheduled on days and times that are convenient to the general public; online orientations can also be created.

Best Practices for Field Trips

• Ideally, field trips should be open to the public
  o New caregivers can be emailed a manual in advance
  o A staff member or dedicated program volunteer should help match caregivers with dogs, fit the harness on the dog and assist with putting the dog into their vehicle

• Field trips should be held every day of the week
  o Organizations can schedule pick-up and drop-off times in order to run program efficiently
  o Program manager should get caregiver’s contact information in case a potential adopter asks to meet a dog who is on a field trip

• Only dogs on the adoption floor should be eligible to go, unless the caregiver is skilled and has a manager’s approval
  o Dogs should have no history of aggression and shouldn’t be excessively reactive or mouthy, except in cases of skilled caregivers that have a manager’s approval

• Caregiver must sign organization’s foster agreement or field trip waiver

• Dogs should be wearing a collar and a harness
  o For added safety, attach a carabiner from the dog’s collar to its harness or attach two leashes, one to the collar and one to the harness
  o Attach foster tags if possible

• Dogs must have been vaccinated for rabies

• Dogs should be wearing an ‘Adopt Me’ vest, leash or bandana

• A laminated field trip sign should be placed on the dog’s kennel during the outing

• Caregivers should be given emergency contact information cards or must put this information in their phone before leaving with the dog

• Caregiver must be given information on the dog’s history before leaving the building

• Dogs should not be taken to any public off-leash areas including dog parks

• Caregivers should not introduce the dog to other dogs during the outing except with manager’s approval

Title: (Shelter Name) Invites Public To Take Dogs On Field Trips

(Town, state) Someone let the shelter dogs out - and it’s saving their lives and bringing out the public in droves. (Your organization’s name) is proud to announce it’s new (Doggy Day Out/program name) program, which pairs members of the community with shelter dogs for field trips. Outings can last from one hour to all day, and can include a hike, a trip to a beach or lake, a sleepover in a home or even a nice dinner in a pet-friendly restaurant. Whether you already have a dog or aren’t ready to have one, it’s a great way to get your pet fix in.

The (name) program was created in order to help reduce kennel stress and provide dogs with enrichment and increased visibility. Outings give the shelter valuable insight on how the dogs behave outside a shelter environment. It’s also a great excuse to spend a day doing something new or exploring (your town’s name).

(Add quote from your organization’s director)

The program was designed to make it easy for the community to participate, so signing up is easy. Participants will be provided with everything they need for a successful field trip (or list items). Individuals interested in the (name) program should email (contact info) to sign up. (Describe process)

Similar programs at shelters across the country have been enormously successful, and (Shelter name) is excited to introduce this to the community.
